

Dr. Nathan Miller received his bachelor's degree from Furman University in Greenville, SC. He then moved to Memphis and attended the University of Tennessee Health Science Center College of Medicine to obtain his medical degree. Dr. Miller's postgraduate training offered him the opportunity to stay in Memphis at the University of Tennessee Health Science Center where he completed a residency in diagnostic radiology and concluded his training with a trauma/emergency radiology fellowship.

Inspiration to become a radiologist came from Dr. Miller's father, who is now a retired radiologist. Dr. Miller has a particular interest for trauma & emergency radiology. In addition to this, he also has a professional interest in kidney and liver transplant patients and procedures surrounding their care.

When Dr. Miller is not working, he loves to hike with his wife of seven years and their Border Collie, Kai. They also enjoy camping, traveling, and skiing. They are excited to move to Colorado for new experiences and also be closer to family.
